IN FULL PRODUCTION FOR QUIZ PROGRAMS

"How now?" we asked the Man Who Built a Better Mousetrap.

"What's the situation?"

"Everything's going good," he replied. "We're in full production."

"Stuff getting through to the American homes at last, eh?" we said.

"Oh, no," said the Man Who Built a Better Mousetrap. "Nothing's getting through to the American home. Nothing at all."

"Where is the stuff going?" we asked.

"Radio programs," said the Man Who Built a Better Mousetrap. "We're just the most industries, we don't expect to get much through to the customers for a couple of years. The radio programs take everything we can turn out."

"Don't tell me that mousetrap is among the prizes on radio programs."

"Why not? The radio people don't tell the winners they're mousetraps necessarily. They say they're a new ash tray imported from France, or a novelty air purifier or an electric lighter or Swiss book ends. Of course, if a master of ceremonies on a radio program sees a contestant who doesn't look very bright he may admit it's just a mousetrap but tells the radio audience it can be applied to a stiff shoulder or a mollusc."

"The quiz program has been a great thing for industry," we suggested. "In the old days a student could not be embarrassed by getting a lot of people into a studio."

"It must have been tough," sighed the Mousetrap Builder. "Fancy being in the manufacturing business and not be able to supply prizes for the Queen For a Day program!"

"One thing is not clear," we said. "Isn't there a terrific public demand for most everything manufacturers produce today?"

"Oh yes."

"Then, why do the manufacturers deluge quiz programs with millions of dollars worth of products hourly?"

The Man Who Built a Better Mousetrap recorded us sternly. "So serious stuff in the newspaper, not to all these people who turn on the radio programs and tell

Presidential Campaign And Television

More bad news!

The candidates and orators in the 1948 presidential campaign are coming to us by television!

The long-suffering public is going to get not only alarming speeches but alarming faces!

Just as election campaigns were first broadcast in the Hoover era, the first big-time television performance will be put on during the next Presidential campaign.

Candidates should be heard but not screened. Only one in a million has a face that an interior decorator would call essential. Under simple radio, there was always the comforting thought a candidate might not look as bad as he sounded. Under television he can be guilty on both counts.

We predict right now that television will cancel out the women's vote. It took 150 years for them to get the ballot. Under television they may give it back.

The only candidate with a chance may be the fellow who makes the women voters remark not "Sound, isn't he?" but "ah-h-h! What a hunk of man!"

"The situation in the Democratic party is not hopeless if new blood is infused,"—Jim Farley. This is the first time anybody has classified us as a desperate as to call for transition.

"Seventy Per Cent of Lend Lease Repaid," says President—Headline.

"I didn't realize," says Dad, "that we could afford to advance the money to pay us back."

Dr. Walter Hasenclever, addressing the Men's Club at its father and son banquet in the South Church Wednesday night, cited many instances when the perspicuity of the American interrogators surpassed the mental alacrity of the top Nazi criminals in the battle of wits between the end of the war and the Nuremberg trials.

Dr. Hasenclever, a member of the Phillips Academy faculty, was with the intelligence service during that time and in tricking information from the German prisoners was curious to learn what made Nazi society click.

His early assignment was with the small fry of the society whom he found "utterly contemptible," and when in July, 1945, he was transferred to the higher-ups, quartered in a large hotel, surrounded by high, skillfully camouflaged fences, he found that the same qualities prevailed, that the same whip of total suspicion lashed the leaders as well as those who were led and that no one could be absolutely sure of anyone else. It was considered good and honest to inform against a neighbor, friend, associate, relative or parent. There was suspicion between the military and the politicians and within the political groups, between the federal and the state officers. Each group blamed the other, claiming that they were victims of Nazism and not its makers. In prison surrounded by the General Field Marshal, Reichsmarschal, Gauleiters and even some simple German generals, Dr. Hasenclever found the same jealousies and hatreds, the same contemptible characteristics that had first kept the Nazi society in line and later caused its disintegration.

"Goering," he said, "was a fascinating prisoner. He had high intellectual qualities, was jovial and witty and an excellent conversationalist. His main absorbing interest was the theatre. Each of his roles in the Nazi regime was played to the hilt. When Hitler said, 'Be a General', Goering was an excellent general. When Hitler said, 'Be a hangman', Goering was an excellent hangman."

Dr. Hasenclever told of one occasion when Goering received some high dignitaries reclining on a couch. His costume was a Roman toga and he wore sandals on his feet. For added effect he allowed emeralds to gently trickle through his fingers. To him all the world was a stage and he was the main actor with one exception—Hitler.

In one interrogation regarding Germany's part in the Spanish war, Goering explained how Franco had sent a German resident of Spain to ask Hitler to have troops transported from Rosso to the Spanish mainland, and since there were 50 transport planes available, the job was completed in three days and Franco's war was started.

"Do you know Dr. Johannes Bernhardt?" the Dr. asked?

Goering sat bolt upright and asked in turn, "How do you know that man?"

For an answer he was told that the interrogator was asking the questions and when he finished Goering might be permitted to ask a few. Upon supplying the information that Bernhardt had been the keyman in Spain, Goering then requested permission to ask a few questions himself. "How do you know about Dr. Bernhardt?"

"Why," said Dr. Hasenclever, "you just told me."

Goering played the part of a loyal follower of Hitler's and few people knew that he had betrayed his leader and had been sentenced to death. It was only because the guard did not follow through with the execution orders, that Goering's life was spared.

"I believe in Hitler," Goering was in the habit of saying, "But I do not agree to thus and so that he did."

During a conversation of this kind, Dr. Hasenclever asked, "Do you believe that Hitler was an idiot?"

"This is not entirely true," was Goering's reply.

Dr. Hasenclever described the personalities of other Nazi leaders, not all of which were amusing.

Von Papen made the announcement that since he was a prisoner of war he would no longer answer questions relating to Germany before 1939. Since the interrogators were anxious to gain information leading up to that time, this news was not welcome. However, one of the questioners suavely addressed the prisoner, "Your excellency, we are historians and pertaining to questions of the return of the Catholic church, your excellency has information unequalled in the world and for the sake of historical research . . . ."

Von Papen made a sweeping bow at the conclusion of that speech and acquiesced, "History will always find me ready to be at her service," and the questions were answered, however untruthfully, for two and a half hours.

Dr. Hasenclever's deductions, after his observation of the prisoners, is that the "Nazi Society was governed by everything morbid, insane, and contemptible in human society."

Following his talk, Dr. Hasenclever answered the questions of the audience, one of which was "Does Nazism have a chance of survival?"

He replied that in his opinion, Germany is ready to follow the first word, and since Democracy is not vociferous, the leading word is apt to be one of the isms.

A banquet and business meeting preceded the talk on "Nazi Twilight" and the program was concluded with a film on the 1946 World Series.

EDITORIAL . . .

LET'S TAKE STOCK

Really, the ballot is a disappointing display of civic responsibility and interest, isn't it? There should be many more persons in town willing and eager to serve; there are too many persons in town who just sit back and criticize those who do run.

Are all small towns like Andover? Possibly they are, but that's no reason why we shouldn't try to lift ourselves above the average small town. There's a certain lethargy in Andover, an inclination to let things just ride along rather than to make a change. It permeates pretty nearly every phase of our existence and it's strongest among the men who in some walks of our life are counted as leaders. Being smug and self-satisfied isn't conducive to progress, especially on the part of those whose position in the community gives them a certain degree of influence and of power, even without holding office.

Every once in a while, there are hopeful signs of an awakening. Sometimes someone runs who is young, intelligent, aggressive, and forward-looking; often he captures the public fancy because of that. But it's more than a one-man or a few-man job; a concerted movement is needed.

It's a nice town, but there's a very real danger in relying too much on our belief that it is a nice town. There's nothing that will bring on a town's decline any faster than a feeling that everything's all right as it is; there is no more formidable stumbling block in the path to the town's progress than the lethargy which prevents it.

We like Andover. It would go hard with anyone from out of town who dared criticize Andover. But there's no harm in taking stock here in Andover by ourselves; criticizing ourselves where we need criticizing and then doing something about it.

How about getting things underway? It's not a moment too soon for a group of forward-looking people to start a concerted movement for the improvement of Andover in every phase of its existence. Let's start now!

1942 THEN - NOW 1947

We're still carrying the "ball" — We intend to score more touchdowns! We have given you wide open "MERCHANDIZING" in that we have led the way to the return of the (used to be) commonly called for grocery merchandise. We "helped" you to secure those items and your "praise" was loud. Now we're striving to secure more and more in greater quantity of those self-same articles.

Time marches on — But have you forgotten?

Now we are in the year 1947! And "still" carrying the ball! This week's issue of the Andover Townsman of the Rockport Market "ad" carries thirty grocery articles that are in "great demand" — We make this assertion that there isn't another store of this size in Massachusetts that can "point" to a record of the touchdowns that this store has scored — and — We're still

THIS SOBER TOWN . . .

Cafe ou Lait

We had a wonderful idea this week, but we didn't manage to get the special article into the warrant in time. However, next year we definitely will sponsor an article asking for an appropriation for vacuum bottles for the employees of the department of public works.

Sometime ago we became rather disturbed because we saw, about ten in the morning, three public works trucks parked outside a local lunchroom, with we don't know how many employees parked inside having their mid-morning coffee. It didn't look good. We don't mind men having coffee half way through their morning's work, and this particular lunchroom does serve a very nice cup of coffee. BUT, while it isn't in the center of town, it is on the Main street, and think of how the average voter would feel if he saw three of the trucks that he appropriated money for idle in front of a lunchroom where a number of the men he appropriated money for were also idle, and whether he mentioned it further or not, we don't know. However, we didn't notice any further instances for quite a while.

Tuesday however we came down by at about 9:30, and there were three employees strolling out of the lunchroom. But there was no truck in sight. We watched out of the back window of our car, and they turned into Morton street. Naturally we became a little curious. Down through the square we went, down Central, and into School. A B.P.W. truck was coming into School from Morton street. Down School street it lumbered, or maybe slumbered. After passing the truck, we turned around further up the street, and tried to keep our car down to the speed of the truck. It was difficult, but we did want to know how far that truck had had to come away from its job so that those three men could have their coffee. When it headed down between the two cemeteries, we gave up. We just couldn't go that slowly.

It impressed us as a new version of portal pay, because of course we taxpayers do have to pay for that time spent in the trips to and from coffee. We really did wonder for a minute or two whether it wouldn't be cheaper to buy vacuum bottles for all of them, because after all you know, sometimes when you stop in at a lunchroom it's an awful temptation to stay a little while and gab about town politics, etc.

Maybe the new foreman will speak to the men. If he doesn't maybe the new superintendent will. If he doesn't, it might be a good idea for the chairman of the board to tell the superintendent to tell the foreman to tell the men that it's costing the town money for them to come to town every morning to have coffee at his opponent's lunchroom. Either his opponent should tell the men that it doesn't look good, or the chairman should insist that instead of coffee, they drink milk.

"Sharing the line.."

a friendly New England habit

WHETHER you're using a ski tow—or party line telephone service—the friendly New England habit of sharing helps everyone get the most out of the facilities at hand.

By keeping your calls brief . . . allowing a little time between calls . . . and answering your telephone promptly, you, as well as your neighbors, can enjoy the maximum benefits from a party line.

Shortages of materials have delayed the huge construction program scheduled here in New England. But, as new equipment becomes available, we will again be in a position to provide individual telephone service to all who want it. Meantime, by putting people on party lines, we are able to give service to many who couldn't have had it otherwise for some time.

AIDS CAMPAIGN FOR ANATOLIA

The current nation-wide campaign for Anatolia College is of particular interest to Myron H. Clark of 30 Chestnut street, who has for many years been concerned with the work of the college. Anatolia is an American college operating under a Massachusetts charter in Salonica, Greece.

A campaign in which New England will raise $200,000 is now under way for expansion and rehabilitation of Anatolia. The national goal is one million dollars.

More than 40 prominent New Englanders, including Dr. Raphael Demos, Alford professor of Philosophy at Harvard, and Dr. Basil Despotis, M. D., of Belmont, are Anatolia graduates. Another Anatolia graduate is Dr. Thanasis Agnides, Greek ambassador to London and acting chairman of the Greek delegation to the United Nations Assembly.

Professor George H. Chase, dean-emeritus of Harvard, is chairman of the New England committee. Boston offices of the college are located at 14 Beacon street. Anatolia President and Mrs. Ernest W. Riggs have arrived in the United States and are presently in Boston in the interests of the campaign.

Other prominent New Englanders serving on the committee for Anatolia College are: Allan Forbes, president of the State Street Trust Co.; Cedric Foster, radio news analyst; The Right Rev. Norman B. Nash, Episcopal Bishop of Massachusetts; Mrs. Alice Dixon Bond, Boston Herald book editor; Victor Butterfield, president of Wesleyan University; Hon. Channing Cox, former Massachusetts governor; and Thomas A. Pappas, merchant and sportsman.

At The Library

Books and Courses

New books at the Memorial Library include the following titles:

Look at America Look (Periodical)
The sub-title reads "The Country You Know—and Don't Know." Beautiful photographs of the entire country, with running comment. The introduction covers about thirty pages in an over-all survey of America as it is today, stressing the fact that the life of the whole nation is as closely integrated today as was the life of a single state in the 18th century, due to new methods of transportation and communication. Those who make a hobby of photography could profit by a study of the pictures.

Best Cartoons of the Year 1946

Lariat, ed.
A selection, by the artists themselves, of the best cartoons they drew for Liberty, Colliers, the Saturday Evening Post, This Week, Parade, Argosy, Pageant, The American and many other magazines. Best Cartoons is a popular annual celebrating its fifth year as the nation's showplace for the best in buffoonery.

Establishing And Operating A Heating And Plumbing Business

Mutter
From the Industrial Small Business Series, originally prepared as an educational manual for the War Department.

Let's Have a Party Woodward
All you need is people, says the author — four or forty — a roof to gather them under; music to lift their spirits, games and stunts to sharpen their wits, and plenty of something good to eat! You'll find suggestions for lots of fun in this book by Elizabeth Woodward, who knows young people and the things they want to know.

The Complete Ski Manual Huber
This is written for several grades of skiers—from the beginner who says, "I'm not built for it!" to the expert, who may gain useful supplementary information. The authors, Eddie Huber and Norman Rogers are both well-known authorities.

China, Yesterday and Today

Lattimore
A new booklet in the series published by the Institute of Pacific Relations. This series is extremely helpful for those who want a brief survey of a country, with the great advantage of simple writing and interesting format, plus pronunciation helps for foreign names.

Sequestered Vales of Life

Pease
Slight sketches recalling past experiences, in which persons and places bear their own names without disguise. Such selections as "Grandfather," "Miss Dwight" of Andover Hill, "J. P.," and "The Alone" mark the quality of the author's reminiscences.

A Rebel Yells

Willkie
A book devoted to the ways and means of cultivating the individual to the highest of his potentialities. Mr. Willkie advocates continuous education and research to keep jobs from becoming monotonously ritualized, and urges us to use this research to make those jobs tools of development.

"AFTER TWO WEEKS—NO MORE ENGLISH IN CLASS," Mr. Manuel Pinto told his students in conversational Spanish upon their first meeting Monday night at the Memorial Library. The fifteen people enrolled were somewhat incredulous, but all are game to try. A class in landscape gardening is being held at the Library on Tuesday nights.

The New South

Three books available at the Memorial Hall Library focus attention on the new attitude of the South and West towards industrial expansion and renovation of the present standards of living in the neglected areas of our country. There is no small argument as to the monopoly of the eastern industries, according to Ellis Gibbs Arnall, the thoroughly well-known governor of Georgia, who has expressed his disfavor in "The Shores Dimly Seen," newly published. Arnall declares himself a "democrat with a small 'd'" and restates his philosophy of democracy as he sees it and as he tried to make it work among the people and the institutions of Georgia. Southern industrialism, education, foreign policy, race questions—he expresses himself on these and several other subjects. There is enough about himself and his personal affairs to warrant the reader believing this to be a bid for a higher place in the nation's political scale.

In "The Revolt of the South and West," by A. G. Mezerik, we find more of this resentment of "industrial tyranny." The South, Intermountain States, and the Pacific West all look at our Eastern states with growing anger, convinced that their higher cost of living, low wages, poor educational and health facilities are deliberate results of the eastern monopoly of opportunity.

The author traveled through 34 states, talking to governors, who are uniting in regional groups for common growth; to industrialists, like Higgins and Kaiser, who now have huge war-built plants; to labor, farm and civic leaders. This book has an authoritative ring with plenty of outspoken criticism, and makes one pause to question the nobility of the enterprises that have made the East the strong portion of the United States at the expense of the remaining sections of the country.

William Haynes, author of "This Chemical Age," has a more positive approach to the problems of the south in his new book "Southern Horizons." Less blame for the difficulties of the southerner is placed on the shoulders of northern industry. Rather the author points out the advantages of the agricultural regions whose people are remaking their areas by experiment with already established crops. Here you meet men who are growing cottonless cotton plants; men who are skimming oil off the waste liquor of the paper-mills to make soap and paint; men who are bombarding the atoms in natural gas to get undreamed-of products. Haynes tells of the silk-worm colony in Texas; of ramie, the wonder fibre, in Florida; of sweet potatoes, dried by the ton for cattlefeed in Georgia and Louisiana; the fascinating new products of the researchers of the Cotton Council of Government Southern Regional Laboratory, of the Textile School at the University of North Carolina, and of the new co-operative Southern Research Institute. His theme is southern resources developed by southerners; greater wealth for the southern states, and valuable new goods for everyone. His chapter headings alone make good reading: Revolution in the South; Competitors of Cotton; Self-help for Cotton; Cotton's Other Crop; Tung—Old Oil for New Needs; Pine Inventory; Pulp, Paper and By-Products; Vistas in Silk and Ramie; Other Chemurgic Products; Mineral Ores and Water Power, etc. It's as interesting as a novel, this book by Haynes!

Guest Night At Choir Auxiliary

Dr. William V. Emmons, local optometrist, gave credit to the physical education department in our public schools for their splendid cooperation in trying to improve the eye condition of the children in his talk to the Auxiliary to the Andover Male Choir at the Guest Night on Thursday evening. He told of the extensive work and experimenting he has done with Andover school children and mentioned the tests made at the academy which were used by the Navy during the war.

He pointed out that all babies are born far-sighted, but that over a period of years a large percentage become near-sighted.

He discussed the work being done in Boston by Dr. Lahey of Lowell in transferring eyes from deceased to living persons. He also brought to the attention of his interested audience the laxity of Massachusetts automobile laws in vision tests, and cited as an example the case of a local person who has been half blind for years but who is driving a car.

The club members found the question period very interesting and solutions to many problems relating to vision were presented. A modest but forceful speaker, Dr. Emmons won the appreciation of his audience.

A business meeting was held with the president, Mrs. Carl A. Wetterberg, presiding. Miss Marion Abbott gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Raymond Wilkinson the treasurer's report. Plans were made for the next meeting to be held on Thursday evening, February 13, at the home of Mrs. George Sanborn on the Hill. It will be a Valentine social. Bridge, whist and other games will be played. Admission will be charged, as money is needed to help defray expenses of the Andover Male Choir when they travel to New Haven in May to the New England Federation of Men's Glee Club competition.

After the meeting delicious refreshments were served by Miss Marion Abbott, Mrs. George Sanborn and Mrs. Joseph Pearson.

ANDOVER WOMEN HEAD Y. W. C. A. FUND DRIVE

Another drive? No — not just another drive — a crusade, rather, that is being undertaken in answer to a call for help. That call came from eminent leaders of Young Women's Christian Associations in Europe — groups, war torn and weary but still functioning — to leaders of Young Women's Christian Associations in the United States of America. National Y. W., New York City, heeded the call and gave each Y. W. in the country a quota toward the necessary total. The grand total was fixed at $2,100,000 — Lawrence Y. W.'s quota at $1800.

On the evening of January 7 at the Lawrence Y. W., a dinner initiated the general drive to raise the $1800. Individuals in all of Greater Lawrence are being solicited, — residents of the city itself, Methuen, North Andover and Andover. The workers have found, for the most part, a generous spirit and concern for the future of young women and girls in Europe. They have endeavored to explain to those they solicit that the funds gathered are to be used to train new leaders for those war torn countries, who will guide the future mothers of the nations in the ways of good and right and intelligent living; and again, will be used to restore to health leaders worn down by the war; and again, will be used, a small part, for repairing bomb broken meeting places.

The drive is directed by Mrs. M. Stillman and Mrs. Ralph B. Wilkinson, General Co-Chairmen. Solicitors for special gifts are headed by Mrs. Roland Sherman and Mrs. George Thomas, Co-Chairman.

International Night

The Central Parent-Teacher association will hold an international night on Thursday, February 20, in Memorial auditorium instead of February 19, the date originally planned.

Rev. Victor F. Scallise of the Calvary Baptist church in Lowell will be the guest speaker. A program of singing, dancing and music will follow, under the direction of the International Institute in Lawrence.

Rev. Carvell To Speak At Woman's Union

The next meeting of the Woman's Union will be held in the Free church at 7:45 on February 5. All women of the church are urged to attend.

Various interesting items of business will be discussed but the main feature of the evening will be a talk on "Life Is What You Make It," by the Rev. Clinton Carvell of North Andover.

Don't miss an interesting evening.

Improvement Society

The North District Improvement Society met on Thursday evening in the North District schoolhouse. Following the business meeting, beans were enjoyed and refreshments served.

CONFERENCE ON RENTAL HOUSING

Plans for a conference between builders, realtors, material dealers, architects, financing institutions, and representatives of the Federal Housing Administration, were formulated today by representatives of the Home Builders Association of Greater Boston, of which Angus M. McNeil is president, and George A. Cahill, State Director of Federal Housing Administration.

This meeting, which is part of a broad national program will be held at the Auditorium, Boston Consolidated Gas Building, 100 Arlington street, Boston on Tuesday, Feb. 4, at 7:30 p. m. It provides an excellent opportunity for all who are considering the construction of rental housing, to learn, from authoritative sources, the proposals of F.H.A. for the facilitation of these projects.

It will consist of a short formal program during which Mr. Cahill and representatives of his staff will set forth concrete proposals under which builders will be assisted in the construction of rental housing under new facilities provided by F.H.A. under Title VI of the National Housing Act. General discussion will follow, with Mr. Cahill and his staff prepared to answer all questions related to the financing housing projects for Veterans of World War II.

"With F.H.A. and other governmental agencies taking a new and more realistic view of the problems confronting builders today," said Mr. McNeil, "we believe that all that is necessary to start a substantial program of rental housing construction, is knowledge of new provisions and of the new application of old provisions of F.H.A."

A representative of Gov. Robert F. Bradford, who has shown particular interest in home construction for veterans will be in attendance, as will be members of the Legislative Committee on Mercantile Affairs, which is considering many bills concerned with veteran housing.

All who are engaged in construction, or associated with the building and construction industry in any way, are invited to this conference.

World Traveler At November Club

V. C. Buckley, world traveler and author, who will be heard here on February 3 at 3:00 o'clock under the auspices of the November Club, received his introduction to globe-trotting at a desk in a London shipping firm answering the questions of eager travelers.

After a year or so he became tired of telling other people what they should see in Timbaktu and Afghanistan and thousands of places about which he had no real personal knowledge. He decided to see for himself some of the exotic places of which he had been talking so eloquently and set out on a trip around the world. As a result of that trip and three others which were to follow, he became well-known as a writer and lecturer on travel subjects. His books include "Tickets, Please," "With a Passport and Two Eyes," "Stop and Go" and "Happy Countries."

Buckley's lecturing began just as naturally. He brought back from his early travels a magnificent collection of photographs and souvenirs. So many people asked to see them and to hear of his travels that he was, he says, virtually forced into lecturing. He has since made many successful speaking tours throughout the United States.

He has used for conveyance practically every known type of vehicle from an ox-cart to an airplane. The countries he has visited include Australia, China, Japan, India, Germany, Spain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, the West Indies, Austria, Holland, Egypt, Palestine, Canada, and others.

Born in London in 1901, V. C. Buckley was educated at Eton College where his classmates included King Leopold of Belgium, the Duke of Gloucester and Prince Nicholas of Rumania. In 1920 he went to Cambridge, where Prince Albert (now King George VI) was also an undergraduate. Besides his work in the shipping office, he has acted as secretary to a Member of Parliament and in a Mayfair real estate office.

The outbreak of World War II found him in London on duty as an ARP driver. Six months later he volunteered for military duty and was assigned as a captain in the intelligence division of the British Army. In 1942 he was selected to go to Washington, D. C., on a special liaison mission which also took him to the Caribbean area. After the fighting had ceased, he had a short assignment with the 21st Army group in the British Zone in Germany.

The Dramatic Department will meet at the home of Mrs. Preston H. Blake, 7 Stratford road, on Friday, February 7, at 3:00 o'clock.

Book Reviews By Mrs. Putnam

The book reviews at the Shawsheen Village Woman's club have been so enjoyable that a guest day is being sponsored by the literature group at Andover Inn, Wednesday, February 5, at 11:00 o'clock. Mrs. Lewis A. Putnam of Lowell will review several current novels, after which luncheon will be served at the Inn.

Reservations are still available to club members and must be made by February 1.

Mrs. John T. Batal, Mrs. Edwin L. Bramley, Mrs. Edward J. Carey, Mrs. Frederick A. Higgins, Mrs. Alfred Sughrue, Mrs. Walter N. Webster and Mrs. Edward J. O'Connor are the members of the literature committee in charge of arrangements.

These will be the men that will make the policy, and guide Republican elected officials during the crucial non-election year. The newly elected officials are Treasurer Harrie Dammun of Arlington; Secretary Thomas Pappas of Belmont; and Douglas Lawson, who was re-elected president for a second term.

Speakers at the banquet will include Governor Robert F. Bradford, who will make his first major address in the western part of the state since his inauguration. Lt. Gov. Arthur W. Coolidge, Attorney General Clarence Barnes, Treasurer Laurence Curtis, and leaders in both houses of the Massachusetts legislature will be on hand when festivities begin at 6:00 p. m.

Finger Painting To Be Demonstrated

The Shawsheen Village Woman's Club will meet Monday, February 3, at 8:00 p. m., in the auditorium of the Shawsheen school. The president, Mrs. Chester Wells, will preside.

The art department of the club has arranged a very interesting talk and demonstration on "Finger Painting," by Miss Josephine Durrell. Miss Durrell introduced finger painting to the Boston public in 1937, with an exhibition at the Boston public library. She has had exhibitions at the 20th Century club, Symphony Hall, Fine Arts Theatre, Ross Gallery, and many public libraries.

Robert Garneau, an accomplished pianist and a returned World War veteran from North Andover, will be the guest artist. Mr. Garneau served in England and France.

Mrs. Harold T. Houston will be hostess chairman, and the following will assist her: Mrs. Elmer Grover, Mrs. Elsa Guild, Mrs. John Guild, Mrs. Harold Hathaway, Miss Anne Harnedy, Mrs. Frederick Higgins, Mrs. John Higgins, Mrs. Harold T. There are included in this system various other subjects such as printing, graphic arts, general metal work, all taught by Mr. Owen Hinckley of the Junior High School. The Practical Arts teacher of Punchard, Mr. Carl Gahan, is teaching wood work and mechanical drawing. Printing is a new venture that will be very useful to the schools for the printing of tickets, programs, menus, posters, etc. Different types of printing machinery have been set up in the shop room among which are several cuts and a large assortment of type.

Wood working tools, together with the mechanical drawing equipment have been placed in Mr. Gahan's shop for the use of the Punchard students. This new system has provided more activity in the Vocational Department in both schools.

Final Exam

Before taking the final examination for the Guidance Course for teachers, presented by Professor Wendell Yeo of Boston University, refreshments will be served. Three Junior High teachers, Miss Katherine Sweeney, Miss Mabel Marshall, and Mr. Arthur Weiss have attended these meetings and have found them most interesting and resourceful.

Thought for the Week

Here is a poem that means every word it says:

So beautiful and rare
Once broken, it can be mended
But the crack is always there."

Easy Win

The Junior High Basketball squad easily defeated the North Reading cagers for the second time this season on Thursday, Jan. 23. Many student fans were present to see the latter take a beating of 47-1. The honors went to Captain "Fish" Dwyer with a total of 14 points, and his runner-up, John Ross, with 10 points. The Junior High quintet were slightly fast for the North Reading team, or, to put it in a better way, just a better club. The preliminary tilt was won by the home five, also, with a score of 25-2. Morgan and Wilson were the heavy scorers in this game.

Film

A color film on the atom bomb, which was to be presented in assembly at a later date this spring, has been canceled for unexplained reasons. This film would have been of great interest to Punchard students and faculty. We have been on the waiting list for it for some time.

Senior Speaker

On February 14, the Seniors will hear Mr. William Reed, Field Secretary of the Massachusetts Savings Bank Life Insurance Corporation. Mr. Reed has spoken to the economics classes at Punchard before, but this year it was decided that his talk was of sufficient importance to warrant his speaking to the entire class.

Driving Course

Next Monday, February 3, the members of Punchard's driving course will go to Boston to take driving adaptability tests. This trip had been postponed from a previous date because of bad weather. Next Tuesday, February 4, they will take tests for certificates. If these tests are passed, the members need not take the oral examination when obtaining their licenses.

Junior Class Meeting

Last Monday, January 27, the members of the Junior class attended a very important class meeting. A prom date was decided upon and a music committee comprising Louise Crossley, Jane Lynch, Claire Berube, and Lawrence Marocco was appointed. It was also decided to hold another dance Friday evening, March 14, to raise money for the prom. The prom will be held Friday evening, May 23.

Teachers' Association

There was an open meeting of the Andover Public School Teachers Association on Thursday evening in the Memorial auditorium.

The main speaker of the evening was John U. Monro, an Andover young man, at present serving as assistant counselor for veterans at Harvard University.

NEW NAVY EXAM FOR CIVIL ENGINEER

A new examination will be held in May for civil engineers seeking appointment as junior grade lieutenants in the Navy Civil Engineer corps, the Bureau of Yards and Docks has announced.

Candidates must be between 22 and 30 years old, must be graduates of an accredited engineering college or university, must have had three years professional experience in engineering, or related active military service, and must be citizens of the United States. Those who will have completed the three years experience or service by July 1, 1947, may be accepted.

The examination, which will be designed to test general engineering knowledge, will require two days. Applicants can get full details from the Naval Officer Procurement office in their area.

WEDDING

McSUDRY—CASHMAN

At a nuptial mass in St. Kieran's church in Hackscherville, Pa., Miss Ruth L. Cashman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael G. Cashman of 60 Morton street, became the bride of Francis J. McSurdy, son of Mrs. Nellie McSurdy of Mackeysburg, Pa., recently, with Rev. Fr. Joseph Toye officiating.

The bride wore a white satin gown en train with finger-tip veil caught with orange blossoms, and she carried an old fashioned bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Miss Mary McSurdy, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor, and her gown was of light blue silk jersey with overskirt of net. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of talisman roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Jean Tobin of Mackeysburg, wore a similar gown and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

James Berner of Mackeysburg, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man, and Thomas Ryan of Hackscherville was the usher.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother, after which the couple left on a wedding trip to Philadelphia and eastern Pennsylvania. They will make their home in Mackeysburg.

Rescue

Last Tuesday afternoon, a hound owned by Charles Worthen of Ballardvale ventured out on the ice on the Shawsheen just below the ten-footer and found to his dismay that the January thaw was in full swing. He broke through the ice and was struggling to save his life.

Charles Murnane and Woodrow Crowley, with Chief Edward Buchanan, responded to a call from John Duke of River street, and just as a ladder was stretched over the ice, the dog heaved himself to safe ice and dashed for home.

P. A. Sports

Andover's basketball team after losing a heartbreaker to New Bedford Textile, January 22, 76-75, climbed into the saddle early in the game last Saturday to take Worcester Academy's five, 60 to 40. Despite the one-sided score, the game was a fast one, with plenty of thrills.

Hockey has suffered badly the past two weeks; reason — no ice. Games with Stoneham, Belmont Hill and Arlington have been called off, with no predictions ventured as to future prospects.

Jimmy McLane, Andover's star distance swimmer, established a new school mark Saturday when the team defeated Dartmouth Freshmen, 47-19. Jim swam the 100-yard freestyle in 55.1 seconds, clipping five-tenths off the previous record, set by Pulleyn in 1939. This is the second record McLane has hung up in one week—the previous week he broke the Andover school and pool record with a time of 2 minutes, 2.6 seconds in the 200-yard freestyle, demonstrating that he can do short distances as well as long.

JOIN YOUR TOWN IN THE MARCH OF DIMES

Three hundred children throughout Essex County, victims of Infantile Paralysis, will enjoy a two weeks' vacation at the Essex County summer camp at Plum Island and it is expected that several Andover children will be included in this number. This vacation for crippled children who are not accepted in other summer camps because of the insurance clause, will be made possible through funds raised and contributed through the Essex County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Chairman of the Andover chapter, Walter Mondale, announces the extension of the fund raising campaign in our town until February 22 and a valiant effort is being made by the committee to increase Andover's share in the effort to provide for people in our country who have been stricken by the disease and to enlarge the research in care and prevention being carried on by the national foundation.

Last year in this county alone a sum of $38,000 was spent for braces and medical attention and the help of all townspeople is needed to refill the depleted treasury for assistance in the coming year.

Your dime is needed. Put it to work where it will do the most good!

League Takes Stand On International Economic Co-operation

The League of Women Voters has announced that it will continue to work for international economic co-operation in the hope of counteracting what it calls a "rising tide of economic nationalism." It will resist any attempts on the part of Congress to weaken or obstruct the reciprocal trade program.

"Since 1936 the League has worked to bring about the removal of trade barriers and we will continue to do so," Miss Anna Lord Strauss, president, said. "The program to free world trade of governmental restrictions is an integral part of our international economic program, which also includes the International Bank, the Monetary Fund, the Food and Agriculture Organization, the Civil Aviation Organization, the British Loan, the Export-Import Bank, UNRRA, the Reciprocal Trade Program, and our loans for reconstruction and relief.

"We do not believe that any nation today can live unto itself alone — economically or politically. We think that all nations will profit from reduction of barriers to trade and removal of discriminations. The rising tide of economic nationalism in this country which seems all too apparent is to be regretted, particularly in the light of the trade conference scheduled for Geneva next April. The solution of the world's political problems is so closely connected with its economic health that by exercising our leadership for economic cooperation before and after the Geneva Conference we may well play an important part in bringing about the peace which we all desire.

"We are on a dangerous road, if the United States should abdicate its leadership for better trade relations and economic peace," Miss Strauss continued. "If we, the most powerful economic force in the world, back down on our stand for cooperation and isolate ourselves behind high tariff walls, the economically less secure nations of the world will have no alternatives but the formation of economic blocs and the use of all devices of economic nationalism such as: quotas, embargoes, preferences, and bilateral agreements.

"Our own export industry will suffer immediately. We have industrial capacity in excess of our own needs in some areas, and our farmers are already worried about falling prices and surpluses. If other nations have no dollars to buy our goods there will be unemployment in heavy industries and depression in farm prices.
